TWELFTH SUNDAY IN ORDINARY TIME

Reading I: Zechariah	12:10-11;13:1
Reading II: Galatians	3:26-29
Gospel: Luke	9:18-24

St. Paul says that we are all made sons and daughters of God by our faith in Jesus Christ. Because we belong to the Lord, we inherit all that is promised. And what is promised? In the first reading, the Lord God promises to pour out upon the inhabitants of Jerusalem "a spirit of grace and petition." This spirit is promised to us. But it is clear from the remainder of the reading that this spirit does not necessarily mean that everything in our life will go easy or be wonderful. The grace of God can be a difficult thing. Remember, Jacob wrestled with an angel (Gen. 32:24). We, at times, must also wrestle with the demands of God's grace. John Paul II has said that the Gospel and we Christians are a "sign of contradiction." To live embracing the difficult grace of God, the cross, is a sign of contradiction to an increasingly self-absorbed and egotistical world.

Our Sympathy

PLEASE PRAY FOR THOSE WHO HAVE DIED THIS WEEK

From the Pastor

As we complete our fiscal year at the end of the month, I make these financial observations. Although we show Sunday collections be under budget, there have been many generous gifts that have come through other donations, memorial offerings and bequests. The quarterly financial reports in the bulletin offer a more complete picture of the overall financial state of the parish and school, which is sound.

One other item of concern: At present we have received pledges to the Annual Diocesan Appeal of $130,000 toward a goal of about 181,000. I thank you for your generosity to the Diocese of Peoria. If you have not made a pledge, you may still do so through the parish office.

I am most grateful for the contributions of over $160,000 to our Sponsor-A-Student fund which provides tuition assistance to families with need. This fund has allowed us to provide a record amount of help to struggling families, many of whom face increased financial difficulties. The parish has made individual grants during May and June based on need. On behalf of these families, I express my sincere thanks for your efforts.

-Msgr. Gray

Please Note

There has been a request for gluten-free hosts to be available for some of the parishioners. While hosts are not totally gluten free because of the requirement for some flour in the hosts, we would like to offer hosts that are accepted for gluten free needs. The station where Sr. Rachel offers Communion will have the gluten free hosts. As we get started, please come to the sacristy to indicate that you would want to receive it.

CATHEDRAL CHILDRENS' CHOIR has added a new children's choir is now a part of the Cathedral Music Department. The choir especially seeks students grades 4-12, rehearses regularly and appears at parish and diocesan events. Please contact Greg Etzel, Director of Music for the Cathedral and Office of Divine Worship at 677-7084 or questions.

HOLY HOUR FOR VOCATIONS will be at St. Philomena Church on Wednesday, June 22.

Support Summer Food Program

The Summer Food Service Program is a partnership established by the federal government to insure that low income children 18 and under continue to receive free nutritious meals when school is over for the summer. There are several locations looking for volunteers to help serve the already prepared hot meals. It is a great opportunity for service hours for those 13 or older. Adults are also needed. The program, funded by the federal government, is administered by the Illinois State Board of Education and implemented by local partners like school districts, nonprofits and religious congregations. If you would like to volunteer one or several days a week, contact Mary Anne Michelet maryannemichelet@hotmail.com or 657-2484.

Peoria Notre Dame Class Reunion

Plans are being made for the PND Class of '91 Reunion. The reunion will be August 6 at St. Thomas. We would like to gather names of alumni as soon as possible. Contact Michelle Aaron or Sharon Abraham at PND for more information.

Are you receiving the parish emails each week? If you would like to, please send your email address to: parishoffice@stthomas-church.net

If you were receiving emails and they have stopped, please let us know.

"This is my commandment: love one another as I love you." (Jn 15:12)

Dear Brothers and Sisters in Christ:

In this Jubilee Year of Mercy, the Peter's Pence Collection is an opportunity to become a witness of charity to those who suffer most. Pope Francis has encouraged us to "open our eyes and see the misery of the world, the wounds of our brothers and sisters who are denied their dignity, and let us recognize that we are compelled to heed their cry for help!" (Misericordiae Vultus, [MV] no. 15).

Through the Peter's Pence Collection, we stand in solidarity with Catholics all over the world to support the charitable works of our Holy Father. Contributions to this collection support Pope Francis as he reaches out to those suffering the effects of war and violence, natural disasters, and religious persecution.

Pope Francis has told us that "mercy is the force that reawakens us to new life and instills in us the courage to look to the future with hope" (MV, no. 10). Please prayerfully consider participating in this collection and becoming a witness of charity, a force of mercy that reaches out to those around the world.

Sincerely yours in Christ,

+Daniel R. Jenky C.S.C.

Lessons of the Heart

My first days as a father in the I.C.U.

By Anthony J. Zavagin
America Magazine, June 8-15, 2015

My preparation to become a father was easier than I expected. Apart from attending doctor's appointments, assembling the crib and a few trips to buy frozen yogurt, my life remained relatively unchanged. At one point, my wife, Molly, gave me a book on fatherhood that she had received from a friend. This book bore the scars of a serious father-to-be: worn, dog-eared pages, yellow highlighting and a rainbow of Post-it notes. I thanked her for the book and set it aside on the nightstand, where it stayed. I was excited, for sure, but things just seemed far away, and I was caught up in the day-to-day duties of work and life.

I am not sure how prepared I could have been when our son Sean arrived six weeks early. Sean's birth had come so unexpectedly that it almost did not seem real. But there he was: a tiny little gift from God, a preemie whose heart and respiration rates would require extra monitoring. We dug in for an extended hospital stay, holding on to hope that we could bring Sean home in a week or two.

It seems funny to say that a person is acting strange when you have only known him for 10 days; but one Sunday, Sean was not acting like himself. He was sleepy and was not eating. At 10 p.m., we got a knock on the door. The pediatrician had been monitoring Sean's heart and believed that something was seriously wrong. She had already called Boston Children's Hospital, and they were sending a special cardiac ambulance. Molly and I looked at each other with panicked faces, again wondering if this was actually happening.

It was. Tests confirmed that our son had developed a condition called a coarctation of the aorta, a heart defect that constricts his blood flow and could lead to heart failure. He would need surgery, and the next available slot was the following day. We absorbed the news and took turns holding vigil next to Sean. Molly had the first shift. I went to the family waiting area, took two bites of a muffin and proceeded to stare blankly at it for some period of time. I became aware of a couple sitting near me; they were parents as well, and their little boy was across the hall from Sean. I could not muster a smile, never mind the usual pleasantries.

I did not know it at the time, but these parents, along with the other families in the cardiac intensive care unit, would teach me more about parenting than any book possibly could. It was here I found the patience and care of parents under incredible stress. It was here that I learned firsthand about the gift of new life and just how fragile it can be. It was here that I witnessed a kind of love that was altogether new to me.

Later that day, a stuffed animal arrived courtesy of the parents I met in the waiting area, along with a card that welcomed us into the world of "heart moms and dads." I became a silent admirer of this couple, whose child had undergone multiple surgeries. They were just across the hall, and though I tried to give them privacy, my gaze kept wondering in their direction, peeking between the curtains to see how experienced parents handle this sort of stress. I could see they had it together. They knew the purpose of each IV line and tube; they asked the doctors spot-on questions.

In a short time, I too became well versed in cardiac matters, thanks to the patient explanations of Sean's doctors. But I also found myself thinking of Jesus' heart, especially the rather anatomical depiction that I have seen in so many stained-glass church windows. Growing up, I was very familiar with the image of the Sacred Heart, but I had no real understanding of the theology behind it.

Last year, a colleague recommended Henri Nouwen's Heart Speaks to Heart, which helped me gain a new understanding of this devotion. Nouwen describes an invitation to enter the wounded heart of Jesus. He enters into a dialogue with Jesus, who tells him, "Know that I have come to give you a new heart and spirit, yes, even a new body in which the struggles of your life can be seen as signs of beauty and hope."
